Confessions of a War Correspondent

By

WILLIAM G.
SHEPHERD

Correspondent of the United Press

A "war book" that is not of the ordinary sort. It deals with the lighter side of the great contest,—the little things, the individual heroes, the personal danger and sufferings—not with battles, strategy or war aims. There are anecdotes of men who endured, of spies, of a man who turned his back on his intention of becoming a deserter and who became a hero instead. This is the sort of book which Mr. Shepherd has written and which you will want to read

Towards the Goal, A Woman's Letters from the Front

With an Introduction by THEODORE ROOSEVELT

This volume is, in a sense, a sequel to "England's Effort"—one of the most successful of all war books—published a year ago. It is, in fact, a graphic revelation of the verification at the front of the prophecy "England's Effort" implied—that as England's effort was to the utmost she would soon be striking out as hard and as skillfully as any belligerent, and in the direction of certain victory.

The Origins of the Triple Alliance

This clear and lively account of the doctrines and the events which produced the Triple Alliance covers that fascinating chapter of European diplomacy in which Bismarck is the central figure. It is distinguished by so clear a sense of the interrelations—the actions and reactions—of the events and ideas of the period as they affected the policies of all the European nations as to give a singularly full and well-proportioned impression of a period which, culminating in this war, has so supreme a present significance.

The Fighting Men

Containing "The Parisian," "Odyssey of the Three Slavs," "The Belgian," "The Prussian," "The Man from America," and "An Englishman."

The stories included in this volume are pure fiction but they carry the stamp of veracity: the author having been war correspondent for the Times and other papers, and later an American ambulance driver, knows war well. The stories form a series of taut, graphic narratives which serve incidentally to reveal by concrete examples the nature of the various nationalities in this war.

The House with the Mezzanine and Other Stories

Translated by S. S. Kotliansky and Gilbert Cannan

This volume contains some of the most notable of the stories of the famous Russian story-teller—the three long short stories, almost "novelettes" perhaps, "My Life," the story of a provincial, "The Duel," and "The Lady with the Toy Dog"; such little masterpieces as "In Exile," "Typhus," "Goussiev"; and several exquisite stories of character like "The House with the Mezzanine" and "Gooseberries."

TREASURY TREATMENT OF PUBLISHERS

THE letter of the head of the Putnam house to the Secretary of the Treasury, which we print elsewhere, states forcibly only a portion of the burdens which the Treasury Department by its regulations and methods lays upon American publishers. It was supposed, as Mr. Putnam points out, that the Underwood Tariff Bill was to reduce the duty on books. But unfortunately the application of the law under the present Administration, tho this was supposed to be committed to lower duties, has actually increased tariff duties and burdens. Let us state frankly a case in point from the recent experience of our own office. We imported for the American market, with supposedly exclusive rights, the "English Catalog of Books 1911-15," a bibliographical work, of course of limited circulation, retailing in England for five guineas, or the equivalent of $25. The terms for the American market were £2 10s. for one hundred copies, or £3 for fifty copies. So many copies were ordered by American libraries thru other importers, under the duty-free provision for libraries, that we could not take the full hundred copies which the American market would otherwise justify and, therefore, purchased fifty copies at £3 each, which price we pay in actual cash. These copies we place on the American market by advertising them in our own publications and thru other means, all of which cost money. After paying the duty of 15 per cent., the expenses of importation and incidental expenses, and taking the risk of unsold copies, the profit is nearly negligible, and our interest is more in supplying this bibliographical work because of an association of long standing with the English publishers than of actual profit.

The importers who bring in individual copies on specific order from individual libraries, duty-free, pay presumably £3 10s., the English wholesale price for a few copies. Doubtless, the English publishers would sell for the Australian market, if that would absorb fifty copies, at the £3 price. But our American Treasury Department assumes either that we are not telling the truth in presenting actual invoices at £3 each, or that we are in some indirect way buying under market price. Therefore the New York Custom House has insisted that our invoice at actual price is incorrect, and has raised the invoice price to £3 10s., and under a misapplication of another clause of the tariff law has penalized us for "undervaluation" by doubling the duty. Thus, on books for which we actually paid approximately $15, we are required to pay twice 15 per cent. duty on $17.50, or $5.25 additional, entailing a substantial loss. This outrageous absurdity cannot be paralleled, so far as we know, in any other country, tho our own Post Office Department can and does do equally absurd things.

This involves no question of the duty on royalties, or of the intangible value of a book, in which case our Treasury Department rules first one way then the other.

To sum up the whole matter, tho under the present Administration tariff duties are supposed to have been decreased, American publishers are treated as tho they are liars, valuations at actual price are raised, importers are penalized by doubling duties, tho there has been no undervaluation at all, and finally, in some cases, unpaid and conditional royalties are included as part of cost. We respectfully submit that if there is to be any consistency on the part of the Administration in this matter, it is for the Secretary of the Treasury to make clear rulings in protection of honest American business, and to put a stop to absurdities quite unworthy of our supposedly free and democratic Government.

THE cheap book is so very much worth the booksellers' while in England that not only were the advance trade orders on John Murray's shilling edition of "Michael O'Halloran" among the largest even Mr. Murray has ever known, but from a dozen different points throughout England have come bitter complaints of unfairness on the part of booksellers who, in their eagerness to push the book, put copies on display or sale in advance of publication day, June 1. One bookseller, by the way, excused himself by saying he had forgotten there are thirty-one days in May!

GOVERNMENT RAISES OLD QUESTION REGARDING DUTIABLE VALUE OF BOOKS

A UNITED STATES inspector has called recently on a leading London publisher requesting permission to examine the original entries in his books showing the charges made by him to importing publishers in this country. Presumably the same request is being made of other English publishers and, in the case of this particular publisher, who demurred not without justification at having to open up his books to the representative of a foreign government, the inspector threatened that, were he denied access to the desired figures, the result would be a fifteen per cent. increase on the face of the English publisher's invoices to publishers in the United States.

DUTIABLE VALUE IS PRICE "IN THE MARKET OF ORIGIN"

Apparently the Treasury Department is again raising the troublesome contention that the charges to American publishers on imported editions and imported supplies must be for dutiable purposes not lower than the price at which the books in question, or similar books, are "sold in the market of origin." The stand has been made repeatedly by American publishers that the selling price of single copies at retail in England is not a legitimate price on which to check the correctness of an invoice of an edition or supplies for export, but the Government has from time to time opposed this view. The case in defense of the publishers' contention is carefully reviewed in the following letter sent recently by George Haven Putnam to the Secretary of the Treasury:

BOOKS UNDER THE UNDERWOOD TARIFF

"As a Democrat and an old-time believer in 'tariff for revenue only,' I found myself in full accord with the purpose of Mr. Underwood (now Senator Underwood) and of his associates in shaping the tariff bill of 1912. The tariff measure then enacted by a Democratic Congress and approved by a Democratic President, while still, in my judgment, containing duties that were not to be defended, certainly marked an important step in the direction of tariff reform, the most important step that had in fact been taken since the beginning in 1862 of the series of Republican protectionist measures.

"I had occasion, as representative of the authors and of the publishers, to submit an inquiry to Mr. Underwood while the bill was in committee as to changes, if any, which were proposed affecting the importation or the manufacturing of books. I received from Mr. Underwood a prompt and considerate reply to my inquiry. He reported that it was the intention of those who were responsible for the framing of the bill to do what might seem to be practicable toward "lessening the burdens upon literature."

"He was then considering the reduction of the duty on books from the existing rate of twenty-five per cent. to fifteen per cent. I reported that the publishers would have no ground to question the wisdom of such reduction. It seemed to us very desirable to adopt a policy that should lessen, as far as practicable, the cost of reading matter for our American communities. I pointed out, however, that the imported book represented a small percentage, possibly not exceeding five per cent., of the entire amount of books sold from year to year in this country.

"Accepting the view that the higher education of the country called for a lessening of the burdens on literature, I pointed out that the cost of manufacturing the books that were printed in this country, including the millions of volumes of text-books, had been, under the Republican tariffs, unduly increased by the high rates of duty placed upon the materials required for the manufacturing. These articles comprise fourteen in all—the most important being paper, binder's cloth, binder's thread, binder's board, illustration blocks, leather, etc. I suggested further that, according to my understanding, a scientific and equitable tariff system called for a reduction in the duty on the materials to be made at least pari passu with any reduction in the duty on the finished article.

"Mr. Underwood found himself in accord with these suggestions, and he was good enough to report to me in advance the rates that were finally presented in the bill as enacted. The duty on books was reduced from twenty-five to fifteen per cent. and a corresponding reduction was made in the duties on paper and on the other articles required for the manufacturing of books.

PRICE "IN THE MARKET OF ORIGIN" INTERPRETED AS PRICE AT RETAIL

"I am writing to report that, notwithstanding the adoption by the Democratic Congress and a Democratic Administration of this liberal and intelligent policy providing for the lessening of burdens upon literature and upon higher education, the Customs authorities have from time to time during the past two years found occasion to give such interpretation to the text of the statute, and to the regulations in force under the statute, as has, in a number of cases, made the duty now to be collected on books imported in editions higher, and sometimes substantially higher, than that previously collected under the higher rates of the Republican tariff. The amount of the duty demanded and collected has been affected as follows:

"The appraisers are from time to time taking the ground that the 'dutable value' of books imported in editions shall be not less than the price charged for the same books sold 'in the market of origin'; and they have used as 'the selling price in the market of origin' not that charged for similar supplies, but the price for small lots sold over the counter.

IMPORTANCE OF PUBLICATION ON "JOINT ACCOUNT"

"During the past years, the English and American publishers have developed the practice of making publication of an important work, for the use of English speaking people on both sides of the Atlantic, on 'joint account.' The amount paid to the author and the cost of the illustrations, and, in case the work is one for which it is not essential to secure American copyright, the cost of the typesetting, is divided equally between the two markets or the two editions. An edition may be printed of, say, two thousand copies, of which one thousand are delivered in the American market and one thousand are retained for sale by the English publishers.

"The business practicability of the undertaking is based upon the understanding that the American edition shall be charged with one-half of this plant outlay and shall be charged further with the freight and with the amount of duty paid, based upon the actual manufacturing invoice showing the amount paid by the American publishers. The appraisers have from time to time taken the ground, however, that the 'dutiable value' shall be not the manufacturing outlay—i. e., one-half of the total outlay—but the price at which a dozen copies of the book, or half a dozen copies of the book, are sold across the counter in London to a retail buyer. With duty charged on such a basis, a publishing undertaking, which with a duty based upon actual manufacturing outlay would have given promise of profit, becomes impracticable.

"The blocking or checking of publishing undertakings of this character brings loss not only to authors and to publishers, but to the book-reading public. If books are not produced in this way on 'joint account' in an American edition, the American buyer is compelled to take his copy in the form of the English edition costing a very much higher price.

DUTY SHOULD BE ON ACTUAL OUTLAY OF IMPORTING PUBLISHER

"It is the contention of the importing publisher that the duty should be based upon the actual amount of his outlay. It is his further contention that if there is to be a checking of the invoice by a price paid in the market of origin, there should be utilized for such checking the price paid for a sale of a similar quantity and not the sale of half a dozen or a dozen copies at retail. The English publishers have occasion to sell editions, or large quantities, to their colonies, and it is, therefore, usually practicable to secure for comparison the price for a similar lot, a thousand copies, or at least five hundred copies, as charged to the Australian or Canadian importing publishers. It is our contention that such a sale made in London to Melbourne, Australia, or to Toronto, Canada, is a 'sale made in the market of origin,' and that the use of this for comparison or checking meets specifically the requirements of the law.

"The appraisers have pointed out that the checking of the invoice by sales made in the market of origin, and if necessary the raising of the dutiable value so as to bring it into line with the prices secured at such sales, is, under the Customs regulations, enforced not only for books but for all classes of dutiable articles. I have made the rejoinder in arguments before the appraisers that there is less difficulty in securing in the cases, say, of handkerchiefs or penknives, for use as comparison, record of a sale in the market of origin of a similar quantity. A manufacturer of handkerchiefs will sell to a continental customer a lot of say a hundred gross and that sale will give a figure for comparison with the figure charged in the invoice to the American importers. A manufacturer of penknives will, in like manner, sell in the home market a quantity similar to that sold to the American importer. It was, I judge, never intended to utilize as a check upon an invoice or as a ground for the increase of an invoice, the price charged in the market of origin for a dozen handkerchiefs or for a half dozen penknives.

"Sales of similar quantities of books, particularly of a book which is being produced for the first time and of which, therefore, there may have been no preceding sale, it may be more difficult to secure. It is frequently the case that it is only the American publisher who will divide the edition equally, or who will take for publication on this side a supply of as many as 500 copies, but, as above pointed out, quantity sales more or less similar in amount are made for the Colonial markets, and it is these, and not the retail sales in London, that should be utilized for comparison.

THE DUTY ON AUTHORSHIP

"A second heading under which the interpretation given by the appraiser to the Democratic tariff results in higher rates of duty than those collected under a Republican tariff is that of duty on authorship. The publishers have for many years taken the ground that the law does not make provision for any duty on the item of authorship. If an American publisher arranges with an English author for the production of a volume in consideration of the payment of a fixed amount, the publisher is in a position in making payment, say, in Oxford, on completion of the work, to bring the manuscript in his trunk to New York. The manuscript is exposed in due course for the inspector, but altho it represents outlay and 'property' value, no attempt has ever been made to collect duty upon it.

"In the case in which the compensation to the author is to be paid not in the shape of a fixed sum, but of a royalty on the copies sold, (and only when the copies have been sold), there is, of course, still less ground for the collection of duty. If, in place of bringing the manuscript to New York, the publisher decides to have an edition printed in London, so that he can divide with a London publisher the plant cost, he imports, in place of the manuscript, a thousand copies or more of the book, usually in sheets. If the authorship were not properly subject to duty when it was brought in the form of a manuscript, it is difficult to understand why it should constitute a factor in the dutiable value of the thousand copies imported in sheets.

"The publishers have taken the ground that the duty on these thousand copies should cover only the manufacturing cost, including a proper proportion of the typesetting. The appraisers, in insisting, as they have insisted from time to time, on the collection of duty upon authorship, have, however, brought the duty paid under this Democratic tariff to a higher rate than that charged for many years under the Republican tariff. It is our contention that this interpretation defeats the purpose and the policy of the Underwood act.

"In the case in which the authorship on the thousand copies so imported is to be paid not in a fixed sum, but in a royalty on the copies sold, and only when they have been sold, the insistence of including this royalty as a factor in the dutiable value compels the importing publisher to make payment upon a royalty that may never be paid at all. Out of the thousand copies imported, it seldom happens that the entire number are sold. If the book does not make a success, no more than 500 copies are sold, and the author will receive royalty only on the 500. Under the contention of the appraiser, the importing publisher will, however, have paid duty on the royalty for the entire one thousand. If the entire importation should be burned up before the books were placed in the market, the importer would, in like manner, have paid duty upon a royalty which would never be received by the author.

"In the case of books imported bound in small quantities, the factor of authorship cannot be separated and constitutes, of necessity, a part of the dutiable value. Unless, however, the publication of books on 'joint account,' with a division between the two markets of the entire outlay, is to be brought to a close, and unless the importation of books in editions is to be materially reduced, the claim for the collection of duty on authorship ought not to be enforced. As before pointed out, if this division of American publishing is undermined or blocked, there must result a serious detriment to or interference with the literary or higher educational interests of the American public.

I take the liberty of asking your consideration for these contentions of the publishers, contentions which concern, as pointed out, the interests not only of the publishers, but also of the authors and of the readers."

HOW THE PUBLIC LIBRARIES HAVE MET THE PROBLEM OF GERMAN IMPORTATIONS DURING THE WAR

WHAT the public libraries of the country have done to meet the problem raised by the British blockade of German commerce is set forth in the report of the Special Committee on German Importations before the recent convention of the American Library Association. This committee—consisting of Frank

P. Hill, Chief Librarian of the Brooklyn Public Library, E. H. Anderson, Director of the New York Public Library, C. W. Andrews, Librarian of the John Crerar Library in Chicago, and M. I. Raney, Librarian of the Johns Hopkins Library—was appointed last November after an apparently satisfactory solution of the difficulty had proved ineffectual. It will be recalled that in November, 1915, announcement was made thru the Librarian of Congress that the British Government was prepared to allow American "universities, colleges and public bodies," upon certification by the Librarian of Congress, to receive from Germany publications of a "philosophical, scientific, technical or educational" nature. This arrangement was barely on its feet, however, before it stumbled over serious difficulties and collapsed. It was at this point that the library committee was formed.

After conference with the Librarian of Congress and leading importers, the committee forwarded a detailed memorandum to the British authorities thru our Department of State.

It also enlisted the support of certain prominent Englishmen, including the president of the Library Association, and arranged to utilize the services of a special representative of the Library of Congress who was being sent abroad.

A proposal came from the British Foreign Office that H. M. Stationery Office place German orders in behalf of the London agents of American institutions, nothing being said regarding the release of material already detained; but war was declared by this country before any action could be taken.

On June 5 of this year word was received thru the Department of State that "His Majesty's Government agree to the termination of the existing arrangement under which the exportation of books of enemy origin has been authorized from Holland to the United States of America, and in order to satisfactorily close the business they are prepared to adopt the suggestion put forward by Dr. Putnam, viz., to grant a permit for the shipment from Rotterdam to the United States of America direct of the 115 cases of books and 14 bales of periodicals which are reported to be lying in Rotterdam." The communication goes on to make this arrangement contingent upon the agreement by Dr. Putnam, the Librarian of Congress, to arrange for the examination of the shipments and the elimination of "all undesirable matter."

This proposal was accepted by the Librarian of Congress, and the material at Rotterdam is now being cleared as rapidly as bottoms can be found to carry it.

"The proper and expected reversal of attitude regarding post packets detained in London," the committee reports, "is not yet secured, tho inspection of individual parcels appears to be going forward and many released. Save to press further on this point, the committee must now mark time till the pending Trading with the Enemy Act is disposed of by Congress."

REVENUE BILL GOES TO SENATE

THE war revenue bill, as revised by the Senate Finance Committee, went to the Senate on July 3. Majority and minority committee reports will be submitted later. The bill in its revised form cuts the House levy of $1,810,000,000 to $1,670,000,000. The chief cuts have been made in taxes that would fall upon the consumer. The Senate Committee put its principal tax upon excess corporation war profits and corporation income, the yield from these two sources being fixed at $1,055,000,000, or a little under 70 per cent. of the entire war levy. The Senate redraft discards the tax of 6 per cent. flat on parcels carried by express companies and imposes a tax of 1 cent for each 25 cents of parcel express charge. In its final form the bill carries the previously noted increase in second class postal rates to 1¼ cents a pound and the 5 per cent. tax on newspaper and periodical profits above $4000.

RETAILERS VERSUS LARGE PRIVATE BUYERS

THE problem of just what is a retailer is by no means peculiar to the book-trade. In a dozen lines of trade there is an uneasy stirring and groping toward a more definite settlement of the boundaries separating retailer from jobber on the one hand and retailer from consumer, especially the large consumer, on the other hand. The National Coffee Roasters' Association, according to an editorial in a recent number of Printers' Ink, have actually gone so far in this matter as to seek a definition from Congress of the word "retailer." This determination of mercantile status is one that has many ramifications, Printers' Ink continues, as evidenced by the grumbling of certain stationers because of the policy of an advertiser of paper napkins in selling at quantity prices to proprietors of restaurants and lunch rooms on the theory that they are, in effect, retailers.

The immediate cause of the solicitude of the marketers of coffee is found in the circumstance that the war revenue bill levies a tax upon all tea or coffee held by anyone "except a retailer who does not sell coffee or tea at wholesale." Advertisers in the tea and coffee field have communicated to Congressmen that they would be pleased if the bill could be amended to define a retailer as a merchant having on hand at one time no more than, say, 200 pounds of coffee and 100 pounds of tea. However, they would not object, they say, if the limitation upon the size of a retailer's stock were placed at double the figures given.

In the case of the National Coffee Roasters' Association the objective of the present move is to prevent the granting of tax immunity as "retailers" to soap clubs, mail-order houses, department stores and chain stores. It is the contention of the association that such distributors are not entitled to retail classification. With other advertisers, however, this question of what shall be accounted the limitations of retailing is likely to be longer lived than the period of interpretation of a war tax.

The recent Victor-Macy decision in the United States Supreme Court, that inferentially leaves the direct contract with the individual retailer as an advertiser's only alternative for resale price fixing, will, of course, invest with importance the definition of a retailer just as the exact definition of an "agent" is of such significance in consignment selling.

It has remained, however, for the present

NOON HOUR POTATO CULTURE IN THE FRONT YARD OF THE DOUBLEDAY, PAGE PLANT AT GARDEN CITY
The company plows and plants the ground at a nominal charge of a dollar or so a row, the employees taking as many hills as they want and doing all the rest of the work at noon or before and after business hours. To make this potato field Doubleday, Page & Co. plowed under a beautiful lawn that had been under careful cultivation for five or six years.

era of high prices of foodstuffs to precipitate new complications with respect to the standing of a "retail merchant" as compared with the large private buyer. In the nation-wide movement for economy as a means of combating the high cost of eatables advertisers of popular food specialties have been subjected to unprecedented pressure from would-be purchasers who are willing to buy in quantity and who, in consideration of the volume of their orders, desire to be granted whatever discounts would be accorded a retailer. In some instances the quantity buyers who wish to edge into the category of retailers are simply large private consumers, but often an air of plausibility is given by the circumstance that the purchase is made for resale or distribution to the members of a neighborhood circle or a co-operative buying club.

In the case of lines put out thru jobbers the latter serve, of course, as buffers for the advertisers against this sort of discount seeking, but the advertisers who have adopted the plan of selling direct to the retail trade are experiencing the full force of the onslaught. For example, the National Biscuit Company and the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Company have had, of late, at their various distributing points, an unusual number of opportunities to sell crackers in bulk, if only they will not inquire too closely whether or not a prospective patron is a bonafide retailer. A desire to secure the lowest possible prices on foodstuffs combined with an instinct to hoard food has impelled a surprising number of householders who have heretofore bought biscuits, etc., in small package form suddenly to undertake to dodge the retailers and buy, at wholesale prices, tins of a capacity of five pounds and upward.

BEST-SELLING BOOKS

ACCORDING to the Bookman's lists, the six books (fiction) which sold best in the order of demand during May were:

MR. BUTLER EXPLAINS HIS ATTITUDE TOWARD LIBRARIANS IN HIS CONVENTION REPORT

New York, June 28, 1917.

Editor THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY:

"It was certainly unfortunate, and not at all in the interest of that peace and harmony which Mr. Butler advocates, that such language should have been applied to librarians, either as a class or individually, as that used by him in speaking of them as 'economic grafters' and 'merchandizing degenerates' acting for their own selfish purpose and gain." The questions at issue as between the trade and librarians is one for friendly and not acrimonious discussion, and we regret extremely that booksellers should have been put into an unfortunate relation with librarians by Mr. Butler's utterances."

The above appeared in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of June 16 and is a criticism of part of my address at the Booksellers' Convention. It is predicated on the use of certain expressions—"economic grafters," "questionable business ethics," and "merchandizing degeneration"—applied to librarians, with the result of "putting the booksellers into an unfortunate relation with librarians"—as tho it could be more unfortunate than it is!

This criticism would clearly indicate the belief on the part of the critic that the writer was the originator of these expressions, and, with malice aforethought, applied them to librarians. As a matter of fact, the origin of these expressions is as follows:

The expression "economic grafters" was taken from the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY which, discussing the general subject of price cutting, termed "the purchaser of price cut goods, such as books, on which the retailer's margin of profit was too narrow to allow such cutting," an "economic grafter."

Here is the origin of "questionable business ethics": A prominent librarian, commenting on the above expression, said:

"Economic grafters we librarians may be, but I believe that the consciences of most of us assure us that when we are spending public funds, with a view to maximum returns for least possible expenditure, we are justified only in obtaining the lowest price possible, regardless of the business discomfort of our local dealers, and the possible 'questionable business ethics' of the members of the Book-Trade."

Here is the origin of "merchandizing degeneration"; the prominent librarian quoted above said further: "It is no longer necessary for a library to buy at a fixed scale of discount, and every library is justified in getting the most advantageous price, regardless of the indulging of dealers in 'merchandizing degeneration.'"

The writer fails to see why the librarians should feel hurt, or that harmonious relations should be threatened, because he applied to them the same terms the librarians had applied to the book-trade, but seemingly more effectively. The writer apologizes for not previously giving credit where it belongs.

There is no extreme attitude toward librarians on the part of the writer. However, he fully believes in all that he has said in his address, and will so believe until proven wrong. The public utterances of the librarians, their collective and individual actions, have shown a consistent course to force down step by step the discounts to libraries, and by means and methods well known to them. The demoralization of the book-trade to-day is the worst in years. All this they know full well, yet it does not appeal to them or influence them in the slightest. Produce the librarian who has come forward suggesting that this predatory economic grafting stop on the part of the libraries, who, acting for their own selfish purpose and gain, try to get all the discount they can and as they can.

What is there "unfortunate" in the address? Can facts and the truth be unfortunate? Is it not widely known that the booksellers have worked for years in the interests of peace and harmony with the libraries, but without avail?

The writer doubts if "booksellers have been put into an unfortunate relation with librarians" by his utterances. On the contrary, he believes the plain statement of facts as he sees them will appeal to their sense of fair trading, and bring them to a realizing sense that their actions are grievously injuring a hard working institution struggling at the best to make ends meet.

Regarding Mr. Bishop's protest in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY against the writer's paper: Mr. Bishop must certainly possess occult power if he can discover as he claims in any part of the "outrageous attack" any statement of mine that would lead to the inference that I "endeavored to show that the motive of librarians regarding discounts is one of direct personal gain on the part of the librarians." I have never heard such an aspersion made against librarians singly or collectively, nor have I ever harbored such a thought, and it is exceedingly regrettable that a librarian should even hint by word of mouth or in print, that such a charge could be thought possible of being entertained against any librarian of the United States by any one in the book-trade or in the library profession.

CHARLES E. BUTLER.

OBITUARY NOTES

HENRY W. KNIGHT, for many years head of the printing department of the Methodist Book Concern, and at one time a subscription book publisher on his own account, died in the Pilcher Hospital, Brooklyn, on July 3 in his seventy-first year. He was secretary of the Memorial and Executive Committee of the Grand Army of the Republic in Kings County, and was Past Commander of U. S. Grant Post, No. 327, G. A. R. He is survived by his wife, a son, Major Henry W. Knight, Jr., and a daughter.

DR. WILLIAM DE WITT HYDE, president of Bowdoin College since 1885, died June 29, in his sixtieth year. He was the author of the following books: "Practical Ethics," 1892; "Social Theology," 1895; "Practical Idealism," 1897; "God's Education of Man," 1899; "The Art of Optimism," 1900; "School Speaker and Reader," 1900; "The Cardinal Virtues," 1901; "Jesus' Way," 1902; "The New Ethics," 1903; "The College Man and the College Woman," 1906; "Abba Father," 1908; "Self-Measurement," 1908; "Sin and Its Forgiveness," 1909; "The Teacher's Philosophy in and Out of School," 1910; "The Five Great Philosophies of Life," 1911; "The Quest of the Best," 1913.

SIR HERBERT BEERBOHM TREE, owner and manager of His Majesty's Theater and for forty years one of the leading figures of the English stage, died of heart disease on July 2. He was born in London on December 17, 1853, and was educated in England and in Germany. Sir Herbert was almost equally well known as an actor of unusual versatility and as a theatrical manager of progressive purpose and brilliant accomplishment. A large portion of his fame was gained thru his productions of Shakespeare's plays, and since the death of Sir Henry Irving he had perhaps been unexcelled as an interpreter of the characters of the master dramatist. In 1915 he came to New York to supervise the production of Shakespearian plays and in 1916 took part in the celebration in New York of the Tercentenary of Shakespeare's death, producing "Henry VIII," "The Merchant of Venice," and of "The Merry Wives of Windsor." He appeared here last Winter in an adaptation of Thackeray's "Colonel Newcome," and left New York only a few weeks ago. Sir Herbert was the author of "The Imaginative Faculty," "Hamlet from an Actor's Prompt Book," "Henry VIII and His Court," "Thoughts and Afterthoughts," 1913; and "Other Short Stories," published in this country two months ago.

WILLIAM WINTER, dean of American dramatic critics, died at his home on Staten Island on June 30. He was in his eighty-second year. Mr. Winter began to write as a boy of eleven. His first book of verse, dedicated to Longfellow, was published when he was eighteen. He graduated from the Harvard Law School in 1857. His second book of poems, "The Queen's Domain and Other Poems," appeared in 1856. From 1856 to 1870 Mr. Winter was managing editor of the New York Weekly Review, to which he contributed many articles on dramatic and literary subjects. He wrote for the New York Express during the editorship of Erastus Brooks, and was for a time managing editor of Frank Leslie's paper. In 1861 he became assistant editor of the New York Albion, for which he wrote the "Mercutio Letters." In 1865 he joined the New York Tribune and commenced the creation of a dramatic department which for critical scholarship made him a unique figure in the history of journalism. As a character in American theatrical life he was noted for his friendships with many distinguished actors and actresses of the generations of long ago. A list of Mr. Winter's work includes: "Poems," 1854; "The Queen's Domain," 1856; "My Witness," 1858; "Thistledown," 1878; "The Trip to England," 1878; "The Jefferson," 1881; "English Rambles," 1884; "Henry Irving. Studies of His Acting," 1885; "The Stage Life of Mary Anderson," 1886; "Shakespeare's England," 1888, 1892, 1910; "Gray Days and Gold," 1889, 1892, 1911; "Wanderers," (Poems) 1889, 1892; "Brief Chronicles," 1889; "John McCullough—A Memorial," 1889; "The Press and the Stage," 1889; "John Gilbert—A Monograph," 1890; "The Actor and Other Orations," 1891; "Shadows of the Stage" (First series), 1892, (Second series), 1893, (Third series), 1894; "Old Shrines and Ivy," 1892; "Life and Art of Edwin Booth," 1893; "George William Curtis—An Oration," 1893; "Life and Art of Joseph Jefferson," 1894; "Brown Heath and Bluebells," 1896; "A Wreath of Laurel," 1898; "Ada Rehan—A Study," 1898; "Mary of Magdala—A Tragedy in Blank Verse," (based on a German prose play by Paul Heyse), 1903; "The Theatre and Its Public," 1905; "Life and Letters of Wm. Law Symonds," 1908; "Other Days—Chronicles and Personal Memories of the Stage," 1908; "Old Friends—Personal Literary Recollections," 1909; "Poems—Authors Edition," 1909; "Life and Art of Richard Mansfield," 1910; "Over the Border," 1911; "Shakespeare on the Stage," 1911; "Lives of the Players—Tyrone Power," 1913; "The Wallet of Time—Theatrical Criticism and Reminiscence," 1913; "Shakespeare on the Stage—Second Series," 1915; "Vagrant Memories: Being Further Recollection of Other Days," 1915; "Shakespeare's England," 1916; "Shakespeare on the Stage—Third Series," 1916. He was editor of: "The Poems of George Arnold," 1866, 1867, 1886; "The Works of Fitz James O'Brien," 1881; "The Poems and Stories of John Brougham," 1881; "Recollections of a Player" by J. H. Stoddart, with introd., 1902; "The Edwin Booth Prompt Books," 1878, 1899, 1908; "Shakespearian Plays."

PERSONAL NOTES

WATSON M. FRENCH, junior traveler for Barse & Hopkins, has enlisted in the Marines.

THE WILL OF Colonel William Conant Church, publisher of the Army and Navy Journal, disposes of an estate estimated at $75,000 in personal property and $100,000 in realty.

WHITNEY DARROW, formerly head of the Princeton University Press, has become advertising and publicity manager for Charles Scribner's Sons' book department. For the immediate present Mr. Darrow will continue a general oversight over the Princeton Press.

FREDERICK PALMER, war correspondent and author of "My Year of the Great War" and "My Second Year of the War," has been appointed by Major-Gen. Pershing to his staff in the Intelligence Department, where he will have general charge of the army's relations with the American press. The appointment carries the rank of major.

WITH THE DEPARTURE for the front this month of Mr. Sidgwick of the English house of Sidgwick & Jackson, both the managing directors and three of the four male employees of the firm—the fourth being an ex-soldier discharged as physically unfit—will be in military service. Mr. Jackson enlisted a year ago and is now a machine gun officer. The firm is, by the way, just nine years old this month.

THE METROPOLITAN MUSEUM OF ART will receive $1,328,257 as residuary legatee under the will of the late Harris Brisbane Dick, of Dick & Fitzgerald. His collection of etchings and drawings was value at $171,036. His books and other literary effects were valued at $6316. His will directed that his book publishing business be sold after his death and the use of the name of Dick & Fitzgerald be discontinued. The business was sold for $15,000.

PERIODICAL NOTES

Architecture, "the professional architectural monthly" published for the past seventeen years by Forbes & Co., has been taken over by Charles Scribner's Sons.

The Countryside, which was acquired by the publishers of The Independent last November, will be published as a monthly section of The Independent, beginning August 4.

THOMAS F. MILLARD, known for years as a war correspondent of American newspapers and magazines, and later as editor of the China Press and author of "America and the Far Eastern Question" and "The New Far East," announces that he will begin the publication in Shanghai very soon of a new weekly journal of opinion, Millard's Review. The journal will aim especially, by reflecting to America and Europe a review and summary of events in the Far East, to bring about a better understanding in the Occident of Far Eastern conditions.

THE LONG-PENDING AMALGAMATION of the Quoin Club and the Periodical Publishers' Association was finally accomplished on June 20 by the election of the following officers: President, Allan H. Richardson, president of the McCall Co.; vice-president and chairman of the Publishers' Division, A. C. G. Hammesfahr, vice-president and general manager of Collier's Weekly; vice-president and chairman of the Circulation Division, Ernest A. Scholz, circulation manager of the Crowell Publishing Co.; secretary, George E. Cook, vice-president of the David C. Cook Publishing Co.; treasurer, Thomas A. Barrett, treasurer of the Orange Judd Co. A vice-president and chairman of the Advertising Division will be selected later. These officers, with C. D. Lanier, secretary and treasurer of the Review of Reviews Co., constitute the executive committee of the association. The enlarged Periodical Publishers' Association will consist of three divisions: Publishers, Advertising and Circulation Divisions.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES

THE LIPPINCOTT Co. will publish this month Rafael Sabatini's new novel, "The Snare."

"THE PAN-GERMAN PLOT UNMASKED" (Scribner's) has gone into a fifth edition.

S. S. McCURE's "Obstacles to Peace" is being translated into Japanese.

METHUEN, the London publishers, are issuing a half-crown edition of Conrad's "Victory."

THE RONALD PRESS has increased the price of "The Economics of Retailing" by Nystrom to $2.50.

THE CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS has no less than thirty-seven of its staff on active service.

THE ENGLISH ARMY COUNCIL has prohibited the manufacture of cases and crates and the use of new cases and crates for packing unbound books for export.

IT IS CLAIMED that forty-six per cent. of the male workers in the printing industry of Great Britain, including old men and boys, have joined the war forces.

THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT has taken control of all the copper in the country. Printers now ordering copper half-tones made must return an equivalent in their weight of old copper.

THE GERMAN AIR RAID on London of three weeks ago "strafed" the English book-trade to the extent of killing the diminutive office boy of one of the London religious publishers.

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART'S "Bab: a Sub-Deb" is now being filmed at Greenwich, Ct., by the Famous Players with Marguerite Clark as the Sub-Deb.

BRUCE BAIRNSFATHER, author of "Fragments from France" and "Bullets and Billets," is appearing again, this time as the illustrator of Capt. A. J. Dawson's "For France," published by the George H. Doran Co.

THE BRITISH MINISTER of Munitions has prohibited the sale or purchase of any waste paper in amounts exceeding 5 cwt. except in accordance with the terms of a permit issued by the Royal Commission on Paper.

CHANCELLOR VON BETHMANN-HOLLWEG has decreed a further reduction of ten per cent. in the size of German newspapers. Promiscuous display of all publications is prohibited, only one copy being allotted to regular news-stands.

THE FIRST TWO VOLUMES of "Evenings with Great Authors" by Sherwin Cody have just appeared under the imprint of A. C. McClurg & Co. These volumes are the first of a series by Mr. Cody in which he shows how to spend pleasant and profitable evenings with famous authors and their books.

"MY DIARY" (for soldiers) and "My Log" (for sailors), announced by Moffat, Yard & Co. in the issue of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of June 23 at 50 cents, are to be issued at 25 cents. The books, at this moderate price, should find a wide sale.

AN ANONYMOUS NOVEL said to bear evidence of a skilled hand was published this week by the Macmillan Co. under the title, "The Empty House." It deals with the consequences of the determination of a young married woman to have no children.

THE LIST OF PUBLICATIONS of the Military Publishing Co. goes on growing like Topsy, and this week sees four new books on the counter: "Army Horse in Accident and Disease," "Manual for the Medical Dept., U. S. A.," "Manual of Military Court Martial," and "Army Paperwork" by Maj. Moss.

THE LATEST ADDITION to the increasingly long list of foreign language dictionaries for soldiers was published the first of July by Harper Bros., "Rapid Fire English, French, German, for the Soldier, with Pronunciation." The military terms, new war slang, words and phrases needed for shopping, exchanging money, are all included.

THE AUTHORS' LEAGUE FUND, organized to extend financial assistance to needy authors, has started the Autograph Book Shop, a nominal organization to supply autographed copies of the works of members of the League to collectors for a small fee. Authors are urged to turn over all requests for autographs to the Fund.

THE BRITISH MINISTER of Munitions has issued a list of occupations for which in future no additional men between eighteen and sixty-one years of age can be engaged. Among these are bookbinding, letterpress and lithographic printing, papermaking, wall-paper manufacture, advertising agents, canvassers, clerks and shop assistants.

HARPER AND BROTHERS have concluded an arrangement with Bossard, the Paris house, to publish in France and the French Colonies a translation of President Wilson's "History of the American People" in five volumes. The translation is to be made by M. D. Roustau, professor in the Lycée Louis-le-Grand and the introduction will be by Emile Boutroux.

ROBERT FRANK, well known heretofore as an importer of foreign publications, announces the publication of a series of booklets, Gems of Russian Literature. The first volume, now ready for issue, is "From Death to Life" by A. Apukhtin, translated by R. Frank and E. Hughes and illustrated by Franklin Booth with pen and ink drawings.

"1000 HINTS ON VEGETABLE GARDENING" by Mae Savell Croy is a complete guide for the amateur gardener announced for June publication by G. P. Putnam's Sons. Each plant is treated individually with regard to soil conditions, transplanting and thinning, etc. Sixty-nine vegetables in all are listed alphabetically, and in addition there are chapters devoted to fruits, large and small.

"THE REBIRTH OF RUSSIA" by Isaac F. Marcossan, announced in June by John Lane Co. for early publication, will be ready July 27. Mr. Marcossan has just returned to this country from Petrograd, where he watched the whole drama of the Russian revolution. A special dedication to the people of the United States has been written for the American edition by Milukoff, late Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs.

THE SENATE adopted the resolution offered by Senator Reed directing the Federal Trade Commission to inform the Senate why it has not commanded the manufacturers of newspaper to dissolve the combination to fix prices, which the commission alleges to exist. The Commission explained immediately that while it has power to issue an order to desist, it has no power of prosecution or punishment; that rests with the Department of Justice.

THE CENTURY CO. announces for publication this month "The Inner Door" by Alan Sullivan; "In the World" by Maxim Gorky; "The Air Man" by Francis A. Collins; "The Junior Plattsburg Manual" by O. O. Ellis and E. B. Garey; "The Boys' Camp Manual" by Charles K. Taylor, and "The Reconstruction of Poland and the Near East" by Herbert Adams Gibbons, author of "The New Map of Europe," "The New Map of Africa," "Paris Reborn" and "The Foundation of the Ottoman Empire."

"THE ORIGINS OF THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE" by Prof. A. C. Coolidge of Harvard, published to-day by Scribner's, is said to give a singularly full and well-proportioned impression of the forces at work in the years immediately preceding the present war. Prof. Coolidge was acting Secretary to our Legation in Berlin in 1890-1; private secretary to the Minister to France in 1892; Secretary to the Legation in Vienna in 1893; Harvard Lecturer at the Sorbonne in 1906-7; and exchange Professor at the University of Berlin in 1913-14.

THE RUMORED METHOD, perfected by a Wisconsin chemist, for making fresh news print from old printed stock by a de-inking process was recently tried out successfully on the presses of the New York Telegraph. The paper ran thru a standard high-speed (24,000 revolutions an hour) without a hitch, is satisfactory in color, and takes half-tones well. It is estimated that by this "Jespersion method," as it is called, at least 1500 of the 6000 tons of news print used daily in this country can be retrieved.

A TRAP for the elusive pennies which, when caught, roll themselves into pounds, has been devised by the Tapley Specialty Co., New York, in the form of a conveniently arranged expense account book. "The Fraser Budget for Personal or Family Expenses" provides a systematic plan for setting aside each month from the known income a specific sum for each class of expense. The book has spaces for daily and monthly records and a yearly summary. It should be of great value to housewives and families in these times of soaring prices.

A NUMBER OF FRIENDS and fellow authors of Richard Harding Davis—including Colonel Roosevelt, General Wood, Booth Tarkington, Charles Dana Gibson, Finley Peter Dunne, Irvin S. Cobb, John Fox, Winston Churchill and Gouverneur Morris—have written appreciations and reminiscences which are to be collected in a special volume to be published by Scribner's. The title is "R. H. D., Appreciations of Richard Harding Davis." A limited edition of three hundred and seventy-five copies is being printed from type on Ruisdael paper, after which the type will be distributed.

ALFRED KNOPF has just sent out the first number of The New World, a four-page broadside of notes on the "Borzoi" books. Booksellers will approve the following prominent note "To the Reader" of this broadside: "It may be that some of the Borzoi books mentioned in this Broadside appeal to you. If you want to examine them ask your bookseller—he has all of them or can get them for you. And you can use this for an order blank, simply writing the titles you want in the space below, signing your name and address and mailing it to your bookseller. If you want a catalog address the publisher."

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just acquired, thru negotiations with his literary executors, the rights to the complete and authorized edition of the works of Walt Whitman, including "Leaves of Grass," complete in leather and cloth and the paper covered edition, editions of Whitman's prose complete in both library and popular bindings, the de luxe Camden edition of poetry and prose, and the three volumes by Horace Traubel, "With Walt Whitman in Camden." The Garden City publishers have taken over the complete stock of these books and are ready to receive trade orders. Announcements of other editions will be made in the near future.

CALIFORNIA has taken another step toward safeguarding merchandising practices within her borders in the new law making it a misdemeanor, when selling or attempting to sell goods, to represent "wilfully and falsely" that they are the product of any dealer, manufacturer, or producer other than the one from whom they actually came. Penalty: a fine of $50 and $300, or imprisonment for 20 to 90 days, or both. This bill differs from the proposed statute on the same subject endorsed by the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, in that it makes substitution a crime, while the latter would merely give the aggrieved manufacturer a right of action against the substitutor for a penalty of $200 for each offense.

THE NEW YORK STATUTE forbidding the use of the United States flag for advertising purposes has been amended by adding the following paragraph: "This subdivision shall not apply . . . to a certificate, diploma, warrant, or commission of appointment to office, ornamental picture, article of jewelry, stationery for use in private correspondence, or newspaper or periodical, on any of which shall be printed, painted or placed said flag, standard, color, shield or ensign disconnected and apart from any advertisement." The amended act also extends to the shield of the United States the protection formerly given the flag.

JUDGE LEARNED HAND of the United States District Court of New York has just granted an injunction against the use of the name Romeike & Ruebe for a press clipping bureau on the ground that it tended to confuse that firm with the old established business of Henry Romeike. It will be recalled that Albert Romeike, having left the older firm, started the rival business of Albert Romeike & Co. The use of this name was enjoined recently by the New York Supreme Court and the name of Romeike & Ruebe was adopted. In forbidding the use of this name in this latest decision, Judge Hand stated that were the names reversed to Ruebe & Romeike the injunction would no longer hold.

FUNK & WAGNALLS have published recently Hildegard Ebenthal's "The Tragedy of a Throne," an intimate record of the accession to the throne of Bavaria of Ludwig II, and of the circumstances which tended to transform the brilliant promise of his early career into the tragedy that finally culminated in his death. The author brings out clearly the subtle schemes by which the moving powers in Prussia, under the leadership of Prince Bismarck, succeeded in undermining the influence of King Ludwig in Bavaria. The manner in which Richard Wagner, Prince Hohenlohe, and other well-known characters were persuaded to assist in this extraordinary drama; and finally how the successful intrigues of the Prussian party in Bavaria made possible the establishment of the German Empire under the Hohenzollerns, thereby ultimately leading to the present world-war.

THE DU PONT FABRIKOID Co. has won another point in its fight to protest its rights to trade secrets involved in the manufacture of leather substitutes. The United States Supreme Court, thru an opinion of Associate Justice Holmes, has reversed the finding of Third Circuit Court in the case of the Du Pont Fabrikoid v. W. E. Masland, a former employee who, it was charged, sought to use in a business of his own, knowledge of the manufacture which he gained as a confidential employee of the Du Ponts. The case was decided first for the company, then for Masland, and finally for the company in the present decision. The point at issue in the Supreme Court's decision was the right of a company to be protected against a breach of confidence by an employee, and its decision in the affirmative should have far reaching results.

JUDGE HAND, of the Federal District Court of New York, in an opinion filed on June 26, denied the application of the Pictorial Review Corporation for a preliminary injunction against the Curtis Publishing Company in a suit for unfair competition and alleged violation of the Clayton Law, based on the Curtis agency system for selling its magazines. "The defendant in 1899 introduced an elaborate system for training newsboys to do expert work in selling magazines. Looking behind the form of the contract which the defendant makes with its agents to the inherent features of the transaction," said Judge Hand, "I think it may be said that the selling arrangement more nearly resembles an agency conducted by district agents in co-operation with the Curtis boys than it does an outright sale to the district agents and nothing more."

THE AIMS of the Atlantic Monthly Co. in entering the book publishing field are defined as follows by Mr. Sedgwick: "It is our aim to print nothing in which the public is not interested, but, on the other hand, no reprint will be issued simply for the sake of the popularity of its contents. Our object in every case is permanence, and the guiding motto of the book department will be 'Books of Permanent Interest.' It will be our policy consistently to avoid the publication of untied material, but we shall not regard it as necessary that all of the material between the books' covers shall have appeared in The Atlantic. Frequently we shall publish in advance only parts or chapters. We shall not publish fiction. Our methods of selling and distribution will be entirely by advertising, correspondence, and circulars. No salesmen will be employed, and we shall try to give our imprint a definite value as the symbol of books intended only for the permanent shelves of a library."

Advertising copy should reach us Tuesday noon—earlier if proof is desired out-of-town. Forms close Thursday night.

Under the headings of "BOOKS WANTED" and "BOOKS FOR SALE" book-trade subscribers are given under their own names five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertising for specified books, not more than one title to the line, in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding one hundred lines a year, a maximum of fifty lines under "Books Wanted" and fifty lines under "Books for Sale," and if over five lines are sent for either department in only one issue, or fifty lines for each department within the calendar year, the excess is at ten cents a line. Bills for this service will be rendered monthly. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withholding the privileges of advertising should occasion arise, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

"Books Wanted" must be designated by actual title, not by "any."

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Under "HELP WANTED" or for other small undisplayed advertisements, the charge is 10 cents a nonpareil line. No reduction for repeated matter. Count seven words to the line.

The Readers of These Books Learn Something Worthwhile

Here are six new books that are "best sellers" among thoughtful people who read for a purpose. These books treat unusual and important subjects in a new and interesting way, and each one covers its field comprehensively and authoritatively.

The United States Post Office

A vivid and delightful historical story of the postal service, written by Daniel C. Roper, who was formerly First Assistant Postmaster General. It is a complete review of the development of our Post Office from its beginning in the 17th century to the present day with its parcel post and postal banking. The average man can have no idea, before reading this book, of the many varied phases of the postal service, which are of the most unusual interest. Clothbound, illustrated, $1.50 net; by mail, $1.62.

The New Archeological Discoveries and Their Bearing Upon the Life and Times of the Primitive Church. By Camden M. Cobern, D.D., Litt.D. A fascinating subject treated in a charming way that makes it most entertaining reading for every book-lover and Bible student. It describes the wonderful revelations of the life and customs under the Roman Empire 2,000 years ago, which have been made possible by years of excavating and the translating of hundreds of personal letters, legal records, and other manuscripts found. Profusely illustrated. Cloth, over 700 pages, $3.00 net; by mail, $3.16.

Conditions of Labor

in American Industries. By W. J. Lauck and E. Sydenstricker, two experts, who explain thoroughly every phase of the subject on the authority of governmental reports. Wages, working hours and conditions, families, sickness, unemployment, unions, standards of living, and all other phases of the country's industry are treated. This book is needed by every business man, workingman, trade-unionist and social worker and student of industrial problems. Cloth bound, $1.75 net; by mail, $1.87.

How to Choose the Right Vocation

This new book by the expert Vocational Counselor, Holmes W. Merton, covers simply, completely, practically the vital subject of finding for each man and woman just the life-work he or she is best fitted for. Self-analysis and self-development are treated comprehensively. The work explains in detail what ability is needed for each of 1,400 distinct vocations, how to discover your right work, bring into play your greatest powers, and make your work yield the greatest satisfaction and profit. Cloth, $1.50 net; by mail, $1.62.

25,000 Words Frequently Mispronounced by F. H. Vizetelly, Litt.D., LL.D. Here is an authoritative work, designed as a quick reference book to clear up instantly all questions of pronunciation. Thousands of "tricky" words so often mispronounced are here presented with their correct pronunciation—difficult words of all kinds current in literature, science, art, religion, etc.—English, Foreign, Biblical words, proper names, and all other words likely to prove stumbling blocks are included. Almost 1,000 pages, cloth, $1.60 net; by mail, $1.72. Thumb-index, 40 cents extra.

An Introduction to a Biology and Other Papers. By A. D. Darbishire, author of "Breeding and the Mendelian Discovery." To everyone interested in the science and meaning of life, this book will appeal. This is rather an interpretation than a complete description of life. It is the result of fifteen years of careful study of the problems of heredity and it offers a new viewpoint of human evolution. Cloth, illustrated, $2.50 net; by mail, $2.62.

With every one of these books goes this guarantee—"satisfaction or money back"

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in JUNE, 1917

This Reference List includes and classifies all books entered in the annotated Weekly Record during the past month, together with additional titles not therein listed, covering law and medicine, many government documents, university publications, pamphlets, and books of limited character. All works are here entered under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in CAPS and SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics. Under subject entries asterisks (*) designate books previously entered in the Weekly Record, in most cases with descriptive annotation.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in caps, Q, O, D, etc.; for books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, 12°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire publishing output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i. e., GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religious denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.

The Educational List For 1917

Owing to the unusual number of changes in the prices of School Books this year, the forthcoming Educational List will be needed more than ever by Booksellers and Schools. Old lists are practically worthless.

Dealers who circulate the List in quantities with imprint on cover, should place their orders before publication (July 28th), as such orders cannot be filled after that date. Terms, 100 copies, $8; 250 copies, $18.25; 1000 copies, $70.

Single copies, bound in leatherette boards, may be ordered at any time. Price, 50c net.

THE YEAR'S LIVEST WAR BOOKS

Third Edition—Fourth Printing

A Book

That Will Stimulate Recruiting

CARRY ON

Letters in Wartime

By Lieut. CONINGSBY DAWSON

Author of "The Garden Without Walls," etc.

Frontispiece

Cloth, $1.00 net

"No book of the war brings the magnificent heroism of the young men at the front home more vividly than these letters quite unconsciously do. No novel that Lieutenant Dawson has yet written equals in intensity and splendor the tale told so simply, day by day, in these letters to his beloved people at home."—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

"One of the most interesting productions of the subjective side of war that has yet appeared. Dawson makes you see the reactions to the war of a civilian in uniform, a man accustomed to the ease of life who is abruptly plunged into carnage and barbarism and stench."—New York Times.

Coming July 27th

The First Authentic Account of the Great Revolution

THE REBIRTH OF RUSSIA

By ISAAC F. MARCOSSON

Author of "The War After the War," etc.

With 16 Illustrations Cloth, $1.25 net

The first adequate narrative of the greatest event in world history since the French Revolution.

Mr. Marcossion was in Petrograd during the whole drama of reconstruction and he enjoyed an intimate personal contact with the men who made the astounding upheaval possible. His character-study of Kerensky is a brilliant analysis of the Russian Lloyd George.

The book discloses a drama of color and action as thrilling as romance.

A STORY OF WARTIME BUT NOT OF WAR

"This is not a story of the War, but it is a tale of these days of war in England, where the fine flowers of young manhood are being plucked by the god Mars day by day and the fathers and mothers and wives at home are meeting the fact of death with brave faces and eyes that force themselves to smile.

"It is a wonderful study of human motive that Mr. Locke makes, and he does it with that kindly humor, that gentle appreciation for situation that makes a Locke book always a real joy to the reader."—Book News Monthly.
